

SAINT-LAURENT

A SECTOR OF GROWING BUSINESS

The Borough of Saint-Laurent is one of the largest districts of Montreal. It covers 43 square kilometres and is home to more than 85 miles of residents.

Saint-Laurent is located in the center of the Island of Montreal adjacent to its International Airport, P-E Trudeau (Dorval), and along the Trans Canada Highway (Route 40).

It is one of the main centers of high technology in Canada and the second largest industrial district in the Province of Quebec.

Saint-Laurent seeks to help all companies established within its borders at all levels and wherever necessary. Many entrepreneurs rely on the support of the team “Développement Économique Saint-Laurent” to carry out their projects. It prides itself in offering expertise in economic development, and other various tools for setting up businesses, such as directories for contractors or lists of available spaces for rent in industrial/office projects.

Saint-Laurent is home to many international headquarters and more than 4,000 enterprises. The “Technoparc” is a large site devoted to research and development, including pharmaceutical, aerospace, and telecommunications.
